OIL COOK STOVE*The First Replacement
Regiment of Engineers*A DIFFERENT ENGINEER ORGANIZATION

This Regiment was formed December 14th, 1917, at Washington Barracks, D. C., for the express purpose of supplying the various Engineer Units of the U. S. Army with skilled mechanics and technically trained men.

HOW IT DIFFERS—

Upon enlistment the skilled man is sent through a training course designed to adapt his technical knowledge to military needs. This is divided into two parts:

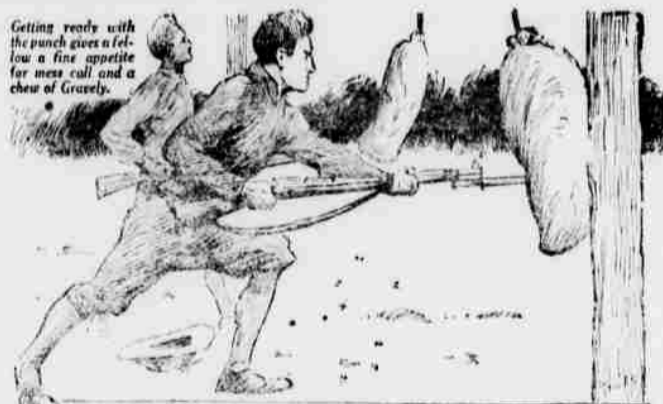

MILITARY—That he may be able to defend himself, the recruit is first taught the fundamentals of military science. Instruction in the use of the rifle and bayonet is given until proficiency is obtained. Strength and health are gained by a system of physical exercise.

TECHNICAL—The outstanding feature of the course is the training given in the Military Trade Schools. Here, under competent instructors, the Engineer soldier learns how technical skill is applied to the conduct of the war. He comes out of these Schools ready to take an effective part in the Engineer Unit and to "deliver the goods."

It only Takes a Minute to send him a pouch of Real GRAVELLY Chewing Plug

Just drop into any wide awake dealer around here, give him 10 cents for the pouch of Real Gravelly, complete in the special envelope ready for mailing.

Address it according to the official directions he will give you. Put on a 3 cent stamp—and Uncle Sam's Mails will see that he gets it.

Real Gravelly is the tobacco to send. Not ordinary plug loaded up with sweetening, but condensed quality. It's worth sending a long way, and when he receives it he's got something.

Give any man a chew of Real Gravelly Plug, and he will tell you that's the kind to send. Send the best!

Ordinary plug is false economy. It costs less per week to chew Real Gravelly, because a small chew of it lasts a long while.

SEND YOUR FRIEND IN THE U. S. SERVICE A POUCH OF GRAVELLY

Even "over there" a 3c. stamp will put it into his hands.

YOU MUST SAVE SUGAR.

Portland, Ore., June 18.—More sugar must be saved. This is the dictum of the Food Administration, and those who are already curtailing their use of sugar are asked to cut down their consumption still further, while those who have so far neglected to make any material decrease in their use of sugar are urged to face the sugar situation squarely as loyal citizens.

Federal Food Administrator W. B. Ayer announced on June 13 that until further notice all retailers will be required to limit their sales of sugar for domestic purposes to two pounds at a time in the city and to five pounds at a time to rural customers, this regulation not to apply to sugar for domestic canning purposes, for which provision has been made so that housewives may obtain proper supplies upon signing a certificate affirming to the Government that she will not use any of the sugar so purchased for any other purpose than canning or preserving.

"This temporary restriction," said Mr. Ayer in making the announcement, "is necessary in order that the rationing and preserving requirements of the country may be taken care of and that waste of perishable fruits may thus be prevented. I wish to say that I am advised from Washington that there is ample sugar in the sugar-growing countries, and ample sugar-refining capacity in the United States. The whole difficulty lies in the shortage of shipping facilities. Undoubtedly there is more or less loss occasioned by the activities of the submarines. The extent of this loss I do not know, but the country may place the utmost reliance in Mr. Hoover's statement that this domestic rationing is most necessary. The limit for domestic consumption still remains at three pounds per month per person but those who wish to do their full share of service can easily keep their consumption substantially under this limit. I most earnestly ask the serious attention of every loyal Oregon family to this very important matter of saving sugar at this time, to the utmost. Self-indulgence in the matter of candy-eating and indiscriminate consumption of sugar at the present time is inexcusable and extremely unpatriotic. Let us all save sugar as a war service. Let us do it cheerfully and be glad of the opportunity to make this comparatively trivial sacrifice."

The Dishonor Men of Yale.

In the Yale senior class statistics the kaiser received 11 votes in answer to the question, Who is the greatest man in the world? There are 11 Germans in the class.

We should like to see an announcement that there were 11 members of the senior class at Yale who would not receive their degrees at commencement.

These 11 seniors should be the chosen youths who insult their college and the country in which they have sought an education by proclaiming the murderer of Edith Cavell and the destroyer of the Lusitania to be the greatest man in the world!

It will not do to whistle this incident down the wind as a matter of no importance—a mere ebullition of the spirits on the part of thoughtless college boys, signifying nothing but a desire to seem smart.

The declaration deserves to be dealt with seriously. Seniors at Yale today are no longer mere boys. Scores and hundreds of Yale students are represented by stars upon her service flag. They are not too young to fight. So the 11 undergraduates of the class of '18 who think the kaiser is the greatest man in the world can not be allowed to plead the baby act as an excuse for their defiant declaration proclaiming admiration for the autocrat who would enslave America if he could. How long would 11 American students remain in the University of Berlin if they ventured to record their opinion that Woodrow Wilson was the greatest man in the world? Indeed, we might better ask, How long would they remain above ground?

There is something more than a mere vainglorious taint in this proclamation of the German kaiser as the world's superman at the very heart of higher education in America. The young apostles of kultur who thus testify to their admiration for the Hohenzollern of Potsdam want mankind to see how safely Germans may show their contempt for this country even within the precincts of its greatest institutions of learning.

To confer the baccalaureate degree upon such fellows as these 11 dishonor men of Yale would be equivalent to a declaration that a good moral character is no longer of any consequence in a college education; for any man, woman or child who can possibly believe that William II. of Germany is the greatest man in the world is utterly devoid of moral perceptions.—New York Sun.

N. M. Stockner and Claud McCarty were in Heppner the first of the week making preparations to leave for the high mountains with the Paul Webb sheep. Part of Mr. Webb's sheep were taken to summer range in Idaho last week and the sheep in charge of Stockner and McCarty will range near Granite.

Mrs. Edward Clark, formerly Miss Opal Bretz of Hillsboro, arrived in Heppner Saturday to join her husband. Mrs. Clark just finished a term in the McMinnville schools, where she had been teaching.
